DOCTRINAL NOTES

THE BOOK OF GENESIS

* Gen 1:1—2:4a: The aim of this narrative is not to present a scientific picture but to teach religious truth, especially the dependence of all creation on God and its consecration to him through the homage rendered by man, who is the climax of creation. Hence its strong liturgical character and the concluding emphasis on the sabbath. It serves as a prologue to the whole of the Old Testament.

* Gen 2:4b ff: This account of the state of the world at the beginning, which introduces the story of the first sin, comes from a different and earlier
